Fractal Of Love
The center of existence, the center of all is God.
The center of all there was, all there is, and all there is to be is God and His love for Creation. Creation created for His Pleasure.
Love is His makeup. Love is His life and love for His Creation. Creation seen as a fractal that ever expands without time into an eternal flow of perfect synchronicity, unto the perfection of life eternal.
Creation's expansion of love that evolves. Creation's growth through experiences to understand existence through life and to experience bliss, all through the One.
Expansion to eternity, Creation being His self, living through the eternal connection of love. There is no other way of existence because all is the One.
The One-Source of life that flows when the formed soul allows the created spirit to be free. To be free from the bondage of boundaries and deceptions. The deceptions of all there is that is not from love.
There is no other God.
